The University of Kansas Paleontological Contributions, new series, is a serial publication intended primarily to publish results of research in paleontology done by workers at the University of Kansas or with close ties to the university, based on Kansas materials, or related to scientific projects sponsored by the University of Kansas. Other paleontological manuscripts may be accepted for publication, staff time permitting, if page charges are paid by the author or his supporting agency. The Contributions, new series, consolidates into one format the three series that were published previously, Monographs, Articles, and Papers.

These publications are distributed from Lawrence, Kansas, as exchanges to scientific institutions and libraries throughout the world and on standing order. They are also available for purchase individually. Orders should be addressed to the Exchange and Gifts Department (Library Sales Office), The University of Kansas Libraries, Lawrence, Kansas 66045. Payment should be made by check or money order payable to The University of Kansas Libraries. A complete list of publications in print may be obtained at the List of Publications link.
